

Chris Darden - NOAA Federal

From: Chris Darden - NOAA Federal
Sent: Saturday, September 7, 2019 9:07 AM
To: sr-bmx.all@noaa.gov
Subject: Fwd: the tweet

Sent from my iPhone

Begin forwarded message:

From: Laurie Nesbitt <[REDACTED] (b)(6)>
Date: September 7, 2019 at 8:51:57 AM EDT
To: "chris.darden@noaa.gov" <chris.darden@noaa.gov>
Subject: RE: the tweet

Hey! You all were right to correct the president and likely avert some panic among your local community that his ignorance and irresponsibility generated. NOAA should have backed you up.

Who are you responsible to—the citizens that rely on you for accuracy during major weather events or the president? Speaking as a citizen, I hope us and science.

I live in Florida and rely heavily on the NHC for accurate information this time of year. I'm very disappointed to think that NOAA would concern itself with helping the president try to cover his obvious ignorance rather than supporting its people who are providing accurate and dependable information.

Thank you,
Laurie